

Roosevelt Portrays America As Forever Against Aggression

Buenos Aires, Dec. 1.—(AP)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt, in the historic moment of a hemisphere bent on peace, portrayed the Americas tonight as "shoulder to shoulder" against aggression and pledged forever against a war of conquest—stern warning to an Old World "where catastrophe impends."

PROPOSE SALES TAX EXTENSION FOR 6 MONTHS

Legislature Starts Measure With Four Other Bills

Program Would Provide State Relief Until July 1, 1937

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 1.—(P)—Five bills to provide state relief funds until July 1, 1937 were started on their way through the second special session of the 59th General Assembly tonight when it reconvened here.

Introduced by Speaker John Devine "by request" the measures provide primarily for an extension of the three per cent sales tax for six months. In a second bill, the speaker proposed continuation of the law diverting receipts of the utility tax act to relief for six months beyond December 31, when this revenue otherwise would go into the general fund.

The house agreed to advance the bills to second reading tomorrow and then adjourn until Tuesday, December 8. Tonight's session was held in the speakers' office, as the house chamber is under repair as a result of a fire July 4, 1935.

These two major amendments to the state's tax statutes were the same as the measures adopted in the regular session of the 59th general assembly in the spring of 1935. Those two laws, in their present form, however, would expire on December 31, unless the new bills are enacted. Governor Horner has promised approval if the measures are passed.

State aid to the poor would be continued at the present rate of $3,000,000 monthly if another of the Devine proposals is enacted.

A fourth bill would give the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission authority until August 1, 1937, to allocate the state funds to the various counties with the amounts to be allocated to the several counties monthly which amounts shall be in ratio of the total amounts from all sources required to be expended for the care and support of poor and indigent persons in each county.

The fifth of the set of bills is a measure appropriating $3,000,000 from the general revenue fund to the emergency relief fund, and providing for its repayment. This bill, passed last summer, was adopted originally to insure having the full amount available in the relief fund each month.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE SUIT

Los Angeles, Dec. 1.—(P)—Federal Judge Harry Holzer today under advisement today a motion to dismiss a $500,000 breach of contract suit against Shirley Temple, child film actress.

The suit was brought by Jack Hayes, claiming to be the discoverer of the young star. He asserted a bankruptcy referee erroneously sold his 4-year contract with Shirley for $250,000.

ALASKA RELIEF SHIP FIRST TO 'BREAK' STRIKE

Government Vessel Sails As Tie-Up Spreads

Marine Firemen And Telegraphers Join Walkout

San Francisco, Dec. 1.—(P)—In the role of an emergency ship the government-chartered steamer Arctic started for Alaska today, the first break in the month-old shipping tie-up, while maritime union leaders organized an "inland march" in support of their strike.

New strike calls brought marine firemen and ship radio telegraphers into the east coast shipping walkout and a few more warehousemen, affiliates of the longshoremen, left their jobs here.

President Harry Bridges of the Coast International Longshoremen's Association and Harry Lundberg, of the Sailors Union of the Pacific, awaited the arrival of the Arctic in Seattle and made plans to continue their series of speeches seeking "inland" backing.

In New York, Joseph Curran, a leader of the rank-and-file east coast seamen's strike, made public a letter allegedly from Bridges accusing I. L. A. President Joseph P. Ryan of using eastern longshoremen to break the sailors' strike there.

With ship radio telegraphers and firemen joining the eastern strike, the seamen there concentrated their efforts toward preventing the United States liner Manhattan from sailing tomorrow.

The steamer Arctic was due to stop at Seattle and load supplies for which several Alaskan cities were reported in acute need.

Samuel W. King, Hawaii delegate in Congress, remained here seeking to persuade the government to send a troopship to the islands with supplies. The interior department has been negotiating to charter a private owned ship for Hawaii along lines of the arrangements made for Alaska.

The wave of popular enthusiasm for the president's goodwill mission, which followed his trip down the South American coast, reached its climax as he reached the congressional palace.

A crowd which packed the Plaza del Congreso—a huge square five blocks long and three wide, directly in front of the congress building—cheered madly as the visiting president reached the Plaza in an automobile with President Agustin P. Justo of Argentina.

Yesterday's popular reception of Mr. Roosevelt on his arrival was described as the greatest in Argentine history, and today's demonstration was almost as great.

As the two presidents entered the chamber by a side door—Mr. Roosevelt in a cutaway coat and Justo in the white uniform of a general, with a blue and white sash across his chest—the delegates who filled the hall burst into ten minutes of cheering and applause.

James Roosevelt, the president's son, and Felipe Esplá, Argentine ambassador to Washington, also sat on the dais.

With Saavedra Lamas presiding, Justo, in the opening address, praised President Roosevelt's peace ideals and expressed the opinion the conference would bring beneficial results for all New World nations, yet preserving friendly ties with Europe.

The round of applause which swept the chamber as the Argentine president stopped speaking rose to a crescendo and lasted for five minutes as the United States executive rose to speak.

Democracy, he declared at one point, is still the hope of the world, but peace and goodwill will not be complete "if we fail to affirm our faith in God."

"Periodic attempts to deny God have always come and will always come to naught," the United States president asserted.

As he left the congress building at 6:36 p. m., the delegates and the crowd outside again sent up a great roar of cheers and applause.

Take Over Rail Empire Direction

Judges Find Three Boys and Three Girls Nearly Perfect

Chicago, Dec. 1.—(P)—Six smiling youths from the agricultural areas—all outspoken exponents of regular eating and sleeping and plenty of exercise—were named the healthiest 4-H Club members today.

The medical examiners found three boys and three girls were all so nearly perfect that they decided to crown all of them champions.

The winners were C. A. Abbott, Jr., 17, Blair, Va.; Ray Graves, 20, Porter, Okla.; Jerry Cowan, 19, Rogersville, Mo.; Margaret J. Topovskii, 16, Westport, O.; Mary Flynn Sellers, 16, Letohatchee, Ala.; Martha A. Ekberg, 16, Wisconsin Dells, Wis.

They earned their coveted titles in a final showdown involving 19 boys and 21 girls, the health champions of 40 states.

Here is a compendium of their formulas:

They eat heartily but enjoy a balanced diet. They drink plenty of milk and water. They sleep eight hours in well ventilated rooms. They work and play hard and like a lot of sunshine.

Miss Topovskii is five foot, five and weighs 123. She excels at swimming, tennis and basketball.

"I drink cod liver oil every day," she said, "and watch my posture."

Miss Sellers calls herself a "typical southern girl" and grins. She's five feet, one inch and weighs 116.

The only blonde among the girls—Miss Ekberg—scales 122 and stands five feet, five and a half inches.

The boys go in for football, basketball and baseball.

Graves, a six footer who weighs 182, boxes, too.

Abbott, one inch shorter, is a 155 pounder.

"I eat anything, but at regular meals," he said. "With each meal I have two or three glasses of milk."

Cowan, another six footer, weighed in at 168.

The judges, grouping them all in the championship, declined to make public their individual scores. Each received a blue ribbon.

Canon City, Colo., Dec. 1.—(P)—Describing his borrowed freedom as "12 years of hell," Charles McClaine, 41, escaped convict from the Colorado penitentiary, surrendered today to Warden Roy Best.

McClaine escaped from a prison ranch July 18, 1924, two years after he was sentenced to a six-to-eight-year term from Denver for grand larceny.

"It's been 12 years of hell," McClaine told the warden, "although I've gone straight all the time. Everytime I saw a policeman I shuddered and every minute I expected to be picked up."

MATRON TO SUE SAMUEL INSULL; WANTS JEWELS

Hostess In Greece Desires Payment For Services

Former Magnate Admits Promising Contents of Box

Chicago, Dec. 1.—(P)—Peter T. Kouridas, attorney for the Greek Matron who befriended Samuel Insull during his exile in Athens, declared tonight she would sue the erstwhile utilities magnate in an effort to obtain a cache of jewelry.

"Insull offered $5,000 but I refused it. All talk of a settlement is off. We're going to sue," he said.

The dark-eyed woman in the case—Mme. Helen Coyinzoglu, contended Insull had promised her the jewelry but had failed to deliver it. Insull agreed, in a statement to reporters, he said:

"I had promised her some jewelry, which is now in a safety deposit box in Paris. I have not been there in some time and consequently had no chance to give it to her."

But they differed on the value of the property involved. Kouridas said he understood it was worth $40,000. Floyd Thompson counsel for Insull said it consisted of "Insull's shirt studs, watch band and so on."

Kouridas pictured his attractive client as the wife of "the world's largest date merchant" who doubles as Greek Consul in Iraq. He said Mme. Coyinzoglu "made it possible" for Insull to stay in Greece "through her strong political ties" at the time the United States sought to extradite him on charges growing out of the collapse of his power empire. He stated the Madame "chartered and paid for" Insull's flight on the tramp steamer Malotis—a trip that ended in his arrest at Istanbul in March, 1934.

Thompson said, however, Mr. and Mrs. Insull gave Mme. Coyinzoglu $5,000 for boarding them in her Athens apartment before they left Greece. He added:

"When she came here in September, 1934, she claimed he owed her money. So he borrowed $1,000 from his son, Samuel Insull, Jr., and paid her in full then."

Shallenberger Farms at Caledonia, Ill., showed the champion Durco Jersey barrow, a heavy weight animal that won in the 240 to 300 pound class. In the exhibition of Belgian stallions, H. C. Later in the day, a huge sorrel from the Horneman Farm won the king Albert cup, the most prized award in the breed. The horse was Kenfleur Rowley Lea, a yearling.

The Sugar Grove Farm at Aurora enhanced Illinois' showing in the reserve breed by taking a blue ribbon. The reserve senior championship and the reserve grand championship.

Joe Hubly did as well for his state in the fat large Yorkshire competition. The Chatsworth swine breeder carried off three first places, six lower colored ribbons and the barrow championship. He showed a middleweight in the championship contest.

Philip H. Postel of Mascoutah, exhibited the champion carload of swine. He showed crossbreeds which also won him first place in the heavyweight class.

Spanish Socialists Begin Drive Against Insurgent "Capital"

The Spanish war at a glance
Socialists drive on Burgos, seat of Fascist Junta.
Madrid foreign volunteer brigade recaptures hospital in University City.
League session called to consider Spanish civil war problems.

Bilbao, Spain, Dec. 1.—(AP)—Spanish government forces, their own capital of Madrid under siege for nearly a month, today launched offensives against the Fascist "capital" of Burgos.

Led by tanks and grenade throwers, the Socialists attacked foes holding two strategic highroads leading into Burgos from the west.

One column, dubbed the "Santander army" captured the village of Soncillo, and rolled along toward a nearby main highway into Burgos.

Another column made up of Basque Nationalists marched from Bilbao to within ten miles of Victoria, commanding another highway into Burgos about 70 miles to the southwest.

Their strategy, government commanders said, was to push the twin advances at the same speed, thus enabling both units to attack Burgos itself simultaneously.

The offensive of the Basques, along a 20-mile front, was led by General Llano de Encomienda who was sent by the Madrid government to assume command of the northern armies.

Madrid, Dec. 1.—(P)—The Spanish government suddenly changed its civil war plan tonight from dogged resistance to fierce attack.

Almost rimed by insurgent armies that have lain at the city's gates for nearly a month, the Socialist defense Junta tonight hurled counter-attackers against the Fascists on all Madrid fronts.

At the same time government troops were driving a two-pronged attack on the Fascist capital at Burgos.

The weary defenders of Madrid, freshened by strong columns of international anti-Fascists, fought and, war ministry officials said, won a 12-hour battle today for the clinic hospital in the University City section on the northwestern edge of the city.

The insurgent captors of the hospital were driven out, the war ministry announced.

At the same time government militia, entrenched in Villescas, opened vigorous fire on the Fascist lines around Villaverde.

The Basque militia from Bilbao, it was said, went into action at Avila, placing Vitoria "in danger."

(Reports from Bilbao said the Basques captured Vitoria.)

Fascists defending the Oviedo region, the government said, were subjected to heavy barrages from Austrian miners, whose favored weapons are sticks of dynamite.

The militia was stirred to greater efforts by the death of "Leontina," (Little Lioness), a fiery peasant woman who commanded one of the women's brigades in the "Maxim Gorki" battalion.

"MIDDLE AGES"

Washington, Dec. 1.—(P)—An American diplomat who falls in love with a foreigner henceforth will have to propose twice—once to the woman of his choice and once to the secretary of state.

If the secretary approves, he will be free to marry, but if he fails to ask the secretary's permission before marrying, he will face dismissal.

Asserting that 122 foreign service career officers, 18 per cent of the total, were married to aliens, the state department today made public an order signed by President Roosevelt on Nov. 17, forbidding such unions in the future unless the secretary approved.

SECRETARIAL CHARM

Salt Lake City, Dec. 1.—(P)—America's red-haired "ideal secretary" advised stenographers throughout the land tonight to develop personal charm as the greatest possible asset.

"It's almost literally true that an employer is no better than his secretary," said slender little Fay Newman, 23, "Miss America" of the U. S. secretarial world.

Personal charm, said Miss Newman, covers the entire range of a secretary's success. The principal components of this charm are ability, adaptability—and a sense of humor.

French Diplomatic Feelers Spur Hopes For War Debts Settlement

Washington, Dec. 1.—(P)—Diplomatic feelers by the French government looking toward a possible settlement of its war debt to the United States raised hope today that this long standing source of ill-will between nations might be removed.

A state department announcement said French Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos had discussed the $4,061,234,000 debt informally with American Ambassador William C. Bullitt in Paris, expressing his government's desire to arrange a settlement but presenting no specific proposals.

Should this preliminary step result in successful negotiations, it would mark the first break in a five year old default by 12 nations on more than $12,000,000,000 in war time obligations.

The French move met a sympathetic but cautious reception among some at the capital, but there was outspoken opposition by others to cutting the debt.

A warning that European nations might be seeking a debt settlement "open up the possibility of borrowing more money for future war" was expressed by Senator O'Mahoney (D., Mont.).

America's money markets now are closed to most European governments by the Johnson act, forbidding loans to any defaulting country.

The state department announced, meanwhile, the receipt of a communication from the government of Finland, the only nation which has met its war debt payments regularly, notifying the United States of its intention to pay the $231,315 installment due December 15.

He Killed His Brother

Thirty-five years ago, according to his own confession, Charles Koehr killed his brother during a quarrel at Belleville. Years passed, and the modern Cain kept the awful secret to himself. He had a chance to tell the truth at the time his brother's body was discovered in a cistern; he had opportunity a year after the alleged crime to confess his part in his brother's untimely death; ten, twenty, or thirty years after the fateful day he could have revealed the hidden truth, but knew that he would have to answer.

Now, thirty-five years after the crime he says he committed, Koehr comes cringing before authorities and announces that he is ready to tell the true story of his brother's death. All these years it had been supposed that the youth drowned, but Koehr says he struck him on the head.

Will Illinois permit thirty-five years to shield a killer?
We believe that Koehr should receive the same treatment as an individual who confessed a crime committed but a short time ago. Koehr, by his own actions and admission, hid the secret too long for the world to forgive when the facts are brought to light.

In the end, his conscience drove him to make his confession. Was it in a spirit of repentance? That makes little difference. Had he been repentant in a true sense of the word, the truth would have been known long ago. Koehr, for more than a third of a century, nursed that secret in his breast, afraid to tell, afraid to let the world know that the blood of his brother was upon his hands.

The confessed slayer now says in none too emphatic tones that he is ready to pay the penalty. Undoubtedly, he expects some clemency. The shadow of the electric chair might change his story. Would a death sentence change his attitude of repentance, and cause him to turn his attention to saving his own hide?
Koehr kept the real nature of his brother's death a secret for thirty-five years. When sentence is passed, if "thirty-five years" comes from the lips of the presiding judge, Koehr should feel that he has been dealt with justly, and humanely.

Fame vs. Facts

"A ghost of a voice once hailed as that of the greatest of coloraturas sounded last night in Chicago's great pink and gold opera house. A pecked house listened in agonized suspense. Then the critics wrote their verdict:
"Galli-Curci, the magnificent, had faltered in her comeback after an operation for gonorrhea fifteen months ago."

We are quoting from a dispatch of recent date, which many persons read with surprise, and a pang of sadness. The public regrets to see one of its idols fall, and this is particularly true in the arts.

But there was a follow-up to that story that all but dug a grave for the singer's career. Eugene Stinson, Chicago music critic, wrote this week:

"Galli-Curci can sing, and after failure of her 'Boheme' last Tuesday she was given indisputable evidence of a comeback in a set of microphonic recordings which attest the amazing fitness of her vocalism."

"The recorded arias show an amazing intensity of tone and a quicksilver mobility of vocalization," Stinson wrote. "They contain the voice the whole world was waiting to hear last Tuesday."

Now, Mr. Stinson was one of those critics who gave Galli-Curci such a spanking after her first appearance. What has happened in the meantime?

If Galli-Curci couldn't sing a week ago, it is strange that she can sing now.

If she was a perfect flop, as painted in the reviews the next day, it is indeed remarkable that the recordings reveal hidden qualities of tone and technique that were lacking at the start of her comeback attempt.

Someone was wrong! Galli-Curci either sang well the first night, or she sang punk. We do not believe it possible for a star of her magnitude to go into such an amateurish slump, and snap out of it almost overnight. Galli-Curci's fame belongs to her. She has admirers in all parts of the world, not for what she can do with her voice now, but what she has accomplished with it in the past. It appears that some pressure has been brought on certain music critics, and that they are now engaged in the perilous and unpleasant job of backtracking.

A Six Year Term?

One of the new pieces of legislation which is almost certain to be proposed at the coming session of Congress will provide for a six year term of office for the President of the United States, without reelection. This proposal has been debated at intervals almost since the foundation of the government, and is revived with the query as to President Roosevelt's plans at the close of his second term.

In a recently published newspaper article, Judson C. Welliver, who occupied the position of confidential secretary to President Warren G. Harding, recalls the interesting if hitherto unknown fact that President Harding had incorporated a suggestion for a six year term for President, in his annual message to Congress in December, 1921, the first regular session of Congress after his inauguration.

The suggestion of a six year term was included in the text of the President's message when it was set in type, according to Mr. Welliver, and was only eliminated at the last minute before the message went to Congress.

The printed proofs of the message were delivered to President Harding on the Sunday morning before Congress was to meet on the following day. The President summoned Mr. Welliver to his office to go over the text with him for any suggestions of changes.

As they read, they came to the paragraph in which the President suggested that the presidential term be made six years, with no reelection. Mr. Welliver said he was surprised at the suggestion, and began to argue with Mr. Harding against its inclusion in the message. While they were talking, the President's wife entered the office, and learning the subject of discussion, Mrs. Harding also opposed the suggestion and hinted that it should be cut out of the message. The upshot of the incident, Mr. Welliver writes, was that the President eliminated the suggestion.

It is well known that President Harding soon afterward started on the ill-fated trip to Alaska which ended in his death. Had President Harding included his suggestion for a six year term in the congressional message of 1921, perhaps it might now be a law of the land.

As it is, the question is still open for debate. Some future Congress may wrestle with the problem and settle it for all time.

Unsafe Hiding Places

"People as a rule haven't money to burn, but, according to the United States Treasury, you'd never think it. Every year, about this time, walls of woe come floating from throughout the country. The burden of most of these laments is that father or mother had chucked money in a stove, furnace or hearth, and absent-mindedly had started a fire. And could Uncle Sam please redeem their charred savings?"

Just the other day in Ottumwa, Iowa, a waitress lighted a fire in a stove to heat some food, and cremated $1,200 which the tavern owner had saved to buy an automobile.

While treasury officials have been able to salvage a lot from the ashes, they probably wish citizens would use a little more forethought in their method of saving for a rainy day.

Too Much Sunshine

After having spent millions of dollars advertising its sunshine, the State of California now faces a rather embarrassing position. Two of its leading institutions recently have come right out in the open and warned the public against taking too much sunshine, either internally or externally.

Both the medical school of the University of California and the San Francisco department of public health have joined in the warning against too much sunshine, either bottled or natural, because of the possibility of delayed harmful effects.

External consumption, the two institutions explain, consists in too much sun bath or other forms of irradiation in which old Sol figures all by himself or his place is taken by a sun-ray or other form of lamp, while the internal consumption is represented by the various vitamin D concentrates and preparations which are added to foods. This constitutes bottled "sunshine vitamins."

Of course both institutions agree that California sunshine is the best sunshine there ever was, but that the effects of too much of it, whether in California, Illinois, Iowa or Maine, is bad.

Many folks speak as they think—only oftener.

Boos—Well, did you collect that bill from Scatterbush?

New Collector—No, sir. I saw a piece of crepe on the door and I didn't want to intrude on their grief.

Boos—You go right back there and get the money. Those people hang a piece of crepe on their door the first of every month.

When a woman buys a fashionable skirt, it necessarily is too tight or too short else it wouldn't be fashionable, would it?

Woman—A big strong man like you ought to be ashamed to go around begging.

Man at Door—When I started out I was a physical wreck. Walkin' done it, mum.

Hurt feelings are often the result of strained imagination.

About the biggest thing in the world is a cinder in your eye.

Man—Does your wife believe all you tell her?

Friend—Does she? Why, she believes lots of things I'd never dream of telling her.

If we could stop a grouch as easy as we stop a laugh, wouldn't it help a lot?

Some weeks recently a hotel keeper in a small remotely located town in this state inserted a want ad in the local paper for a helper. In a small hotel of this sort a helper has to do many sorts of things. The establishment is such that the proprietor cannot afford a staff of specialists.

But to get on with our story. One of the applicants for the job was an Irishman.

"What I want," explained the hotel keeper, "is an all around useful man. One who can cook and wash dishes, keep the books, do his bit behind the desk, handle the correspondence, act as bell boy and drive the automobile down to the depot at train time and to meet all buses to pick up the guests. We have a cow, too. Do you know how a milk?"

"Yes," said the Irishman, "but excuse me for asking what sort of soil have you here?"

"Well," snapped the hotel keeper, "I thought if it was clay I might make bricks in my spare time."

We heard a chap say not long ago that he had only one piece of furniture left in his house and that was the telephone and it was in the hands of a receiver.

Man—But that is not the same tale you told me a few days ago, you know, my man?

Beggar—No, mister. You didn't believe that one.

People and pins are useless when they lose their heads.

Edythe—The doctor is going to teach me to play cards so that I'll know all about it after we are married.

Gladys—That's right. What game is he going to teach you?

Edythe—I think it is called solitaire.

Babies are still being born on farms, but few of them ever learn to be satisfied with country life.

Weary Willie—I may be poor now, but when I was young I had my own carriage.

Leary Louis—Yes, and your mother pushed it.

Membrane Causes Most Nose Troubles—Mucous Lining Is One of Most Sensitive Tissues of Body . . . Becomes Swollen, Inflamed When Bruised . . . Also Sensitive to Proteins . . . Competent Medical Attention Needed if Pimple, Boil, Abscess Appears.

This is the first of a series of articles by Dr. Fishbein, dealing with nose, ear, and throat diseases, and the common cold.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Midway in the face between the eyes is an organ which, for its size and prominence, gives the human being more concern than any other part of his body. In more ways than one, it is the center of interest.

There really is not much to a nose. It is composed of some small bones, cartilages, and soft tissues which surround the two cavities called the nostrils.

It is lined with a mucous membrane, which is mostly responsible for troubles that affect the nose.

On each side of the nose, in back and above it, are the nasal sinuses. These are cavities in the bones of the head which connect with the inside of the nose by small openings.

In addition to the tissues mentioned, there are, of course, the usual blood vessels and nerves responsible for bringing in and taking out blood, and for giving us the sensation of odor, and also those of pain, itching, and other disturbances which may occur in the nose.

The mucous membrane of the nose is one of the most sensitive tissues in the body. When it is bruised or hurt in any way, it responds promptly with swelling and inflammation. It also is sensitive to various protein substances, which will cause it to "swell and pour out a considerable amount of fluid."

Occasionally a small ulcer or infection in the nose will erode a blood vessel; then a crust will form and there will be an oozing of blood.

Inside the nose are hair follicles and hairs which filter out dust or infectious materials brought into the nose with the air.

The pus-forming germs, such as the staphylococcus and the streptococcus, are widespread and usually will enter the human body whenever they come in contact with tissues that have been damaged in any manner. Then comes an infection which may eventually spread throughout the rest of the body.

A nose is best left alone. The pernicious habit of picking the nose, pulling hairs, and trying to squeeze pimples or other infections may set up forms of inflammation that are most serious.

When an infection in the form of a pimple, a boil, or an abscess occurs in the nose, it is best to have prompt, competent medical attention to prevent spread of these infections, and a general poisoning of the body.

One of the latest methods of treatment for such conditions is use of the X-ray.

Making an Early Social 'Splash'

Splashing rain interrupted the wedding, but it failed to dampen the spirits of one tiny, smiling bridesmaid, who daintily lifted her skirts and kept pace with older companions in the procession. The scene was at the wedding of Capt. Michael Ansell, of the Inniskilling Dragon Guards, to Miss Victoria Fuller, at St. Margaret's, Westminster.

LETTER DESCRIBES OPENING CEREMONIES OF MONSTER BRIDGE

White Hall.—Mr. and Mrs. Prosia Wallborn who reside on a farm east of White Hall are in receipt of a letter from their daughter who resides in San Francisco describing the opening of the San Francisco-Oakland bridge, which is the largest bridge in the world. The letter was written November 15. She described the weather is ideal with little need of a wrap, and said the fleet came in the early part of the week to take part in the festivities.

On Thursday there were air parades, yacht races, boat inspections and lots of activity. She and her family went over to Rincon and spent several hours and at night went out on their own hill to watch the searchlights on the fleet and the fireworks. The searchlight display on the ships was gorgeous.

On Friday there was a big parade and grandstand seats sold for $2.50. The parade was two hours in passing, and it included many bands, floats, service men from all branches, and even a band and detachment from an Argentine republic battleship which was anchored in the bay.

Another display of searchlights and fireworks took place on Friday night and Saturday there was an electrical parade at night, which was much more elaborate than either Thursday or Friday had been. The mob of people was very dense and many fainted. Chinatown turned out in full force and was a big part of the parade. They carried their dragon all lit up, and had all their many symbols, musical instruments, etc. Girls carried lighted lanterns.

Beside they had a couple of elaborate floats. Japan also had a lovely float of friendship between the two nations and many Japanese marched.

Passengers on a bus can make the round trip across the bridge for forty-five cents. Cars are $1.30 round trip for four passengers and car.

They are just beginning to feel the grocery warehouse strike and couldn't get sugar, breakfast cereals, canned fish and so on. But she expected the grocery warehouses to open up again on the 16th and had no further fear of shortage.

Development Of Basketball From Its Inception On Program Here

Fourth In Line Of Five Boys Wins Jerseyville Grid Honor

Jerseyville.—The fourth boy in a line of five, all of whom either have or probably will contribute to the success of the Jersey Township high school athletic teams, has been chosen by the Jerseyville H. S. football squad to receive the Jacksonville Journal and Courier gold football. He is Johnny Gross, a little fellow who lacked generous proportions of his three brothers' physique, but who has been calm and cool under fire, and who has earned the title of the most valuable player to his team.

Johnny followed in the footsteps of the famous "Red," the first of the long line, Carl, the second of the unusual family, and then Claude, who left Jerseyville high while his brother was getting his first taste of football, basketball and track. There is one more Gross boy to come along, and he's now in the seventh grade working his way along to the place where his brothers have shown unusual success.

That the Gross boys have played a great part in the success of football and basketball team is seen in the remark of Coach W. J. Creamer. "I wish I had four more boys coming along just like these Gross boys," he declared.

John is a senior. He has played football for three years, has played with the basketball team for two years and probably will on the varsity squad again this year, and is a javelin thrower and pole vaulter on the track and field team.

This youngster hasn't confined all of his activities to one position on the team. He played tail back, where Jerseyville used his 130 pounds of speed and passing ability to sweep around the ends. He also had a fling at playing end toward the end of the season when the coach decided to strengthen this position. He played as quarterback, calling the signals and directing the team's play without becoming rattled.

Temperamentally, John is ideal for a quarterback. He inspires confidence of a cool, calculating type. He could pass, run and kick the ball, and was a good defensive man.

Griggsville Noses Out Bluffs 24-23

Pike Countians Sneak Up From Behind to Cinch Last Quarter Race

Griggsville, Dec. 1.—This town's high school basketball slingers staged a story book finish tonight in their game with Bluffs and emerged winner 24 to 23, after an uphill fight.

The Bluffs Bluejays were winging merrily along until the start of the fourth quarter, when the Griggsville team composed itself and showered in 13 points to register a narrow margin of victory.

Griggsville started off with a slight lead in the initial quarter, but Bluffs popped out to an imposing 15 to 8 advantage by half time. Going into the last quarter Griggsville saw the score standing 19 to 11 against it. From then on it was a rout for the visitors, who were held to 4 points while Griggsville rung up more than three times that many.

Hammitt, local forward, was one of the satellites of the fray with 12 points. The Bluffs reserves snatched the Griggsville seconds in the curtain-raiser 55 to 13.

The box score of the main game: Bluffs FG FT TP Morthele, f. 2 3 7 Schroeder, f. 0 1 1 Baulos, c. 2 0 4 Seaman, c. 1 0 2 Goodin, g. 1 2 4 Smith, g. 1 3 5 Totals 7 9 23

Offer $200,000 For Dizzy Dean

Cincinnati Makes Cash Offer; May Be Accepted

Montreal, Dec. 1.—(P)—Unless his bosses think he's worth considerably more than a fifth of a million dollars, Dizzy Dean is through pitching for the St. Louis Cardinals.

The loquacious pitching ace of the "Gas House Gang" definitely is on the block with a "For Sale" sign attached to his great whiplash right that made him one of the greatest stars in baseball.

Cincinnati has offered $200,000 in cash for Dizzy. The Cardinals are considering the offer and probably will take it unless they can do better by getting a big bundle of cash and players.

Branch Rickey, vice-president and general manager of the Cardinals, was a late arrival at the minor league meeting so no deal involving Dean was possible, but the Associated Press learned on good authority that Dean would be sold definitely.

"Rickey told me," said the source which never has given a "bum steer" to the press, "that Diz will not be back with the Cards in '37."

Baseball experts, who ducked behind potted palms in the lobby of the Mount Royal hotel all day and tried to run rumor down without success, agreed that the proposal to swap Diz for virtually the entire Pittsburgh ball club was ridiculous, although the Pirates by no means were off the Dean market.

The only piece of business transacted during the day as major leaguers went into countless huddles and the minor leaguers held conferences to iron out their problems, was the sale of Outfielder Joe Marty, 1936 Pacific Coast League batting champion from San Francisco, to the Chicago Cubs for Outfielder Johnny Gill, infielders Joe (Vockey) Vitter, a Cub farm hand from Portsmouth of the Piedmont League, and Gene Lillard and cash.

Marty, companion of the great Joe DiMaggio in the Seal outfield last year, is regarded as one of the best minor league finds in years. He batted .359 to win the P. C. L. batting title last season.

Mr. J. T. Ransom, Mrs. Austin Cockrell and daughter, Catherine spent the Thanksgiving vacation with relatives and friends in Decatur. Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Marcellas and daughter, Virginia, accompanied them home for a few days' visit.

Fred Strang of Roodhouse was a business caller in the city yesterday afternoon.

Charles Iriam was a visitor in the city yesterday from Woodson.

Routt Beats Chapin 22 to 10 For First Victory of Season

Rockets Look Better Than Any Time This Year In Contest Last Night

Coach Wallace Baptist's Routt Rockets, who have been sizzling harmlessly in previous games, exploded on the Chapin coach last night and came home on the long end of a 22 to 10 victory.

Led by Perry, center, and Beerup, a guard, the Rockets got down to serious business early in the game and were out in front 8 to 2 at the half. From then on it was all Routt, as the score at the half stood 13 to 2.

Marked improvement was noted in the Rockets' work since their trips to Pearl and Murrayville earlier in the season. The Routt coach adjusted his lineup somewhat, getting good results from the shift.

Planned as Pageant The development of basketball, from the manner in which it was played when Dr. James Naismith originated the game in an eastern Y.M.C.A. down to the present day fast breaking offense and man-to-man defenses, will be put on display tonight at the Illinois School for the Deaf gymnasium when Athletic Director LaRue Van Meter of the college conducts his "school for fans".

Keeping secret his plans for the evening until yesterday, Van Meter revealed that he has completed plans for the program, and that it is ready to go through without a hitch. The "school for fans" requires the aid of a number of players, and the Blueboy coach didn't want to promise the fans something and then not deliver.

To open the program at 7:30, the Blueboy coach has arranged to have peach baskets set up at each end of the gymnasium and two unskilled teams will be sent out to play the scrambling, long shooting game, hit or miss type of game that marked the beginnings of what probably is the largest sport in America today.

Then the pageant of the history of the game will be unfolded. One of the first offensive and defensive maneuvers of the game will be enacted, the four man defense and "sleeper" under the hoop scheduled to be demonstrated. Then as the defense began to learn how to stop the long pass system, and the offense ceased to use a sleeper, there developed the three lane "parallel attack".

To counteract this development, the quick forming five man defense maneuvers will be shown. The Blueboys have been instructed on the best methods of combatting the set governor was a bit surprised when Ollie came back with "Who in—are you?" but the boys present say that Ollie turned a couple dozen different colors when the governor told him.

Art Yates and Brevi, two of Johnston City boys who played such a big part in making basketball history last year for Ralph Davidson, have dropped out of Washington U. at St. Louis according to chatter in the press columns.

Bluffs is figuring on a big time Friday night when Hull comes over to the Scott county city for a basketball game. The two teams, Bluffs and Hull, are being coached by the Morrison brothers. The elder Morrison succeeded Gene Irlig who is now at Fisher.

Athletic Director Van Meter has developed something really unique for tonight's basketball show. He's going to have the old time peach baskets set-up at opposite ends of the gymnasium, and give the fans something about basketball history that has never been seen here before.

There'll be a lot of high school basketball players on tap to see the demonstration. Mose Pearce, Petersburg, is planning to bring a bunch of boys here for the game, and "Doc" Ranes probably will bring down some of his Mt. Sterling basketballers.

Trying to be sociable, the governor said "Nice game Ollie." Perhaps the

Duck Flight Along Illinois River Ends

Jersey Game Warden Says The Migration Is Over For Present Season

Jerseyville—The duck migration in the southern part of the Illinois River valley has terminated, according to Game Warden Thomas Cummings of Jersey county.

"There are no ducks along the Illinois river," Cummings stated. "I made a trip Sunday along the islands in the Elsie, Grafton vicinity and never saw a duck. The flight along the Illinois this season has been comparatively light."

Below freezing weather has prevailed in this locality for the past week, causing the exodus of water fowl to more friendly localities.

The slaughter of ducks in Jersey, Greene and Calhoun this season was small compared to former seasons. The birds according to hunters were not present in numbers to warrant much shooting.

Rabies Is Threat

Rabies in Jersey county is still a threat according to Dr. H. H. Seely, local veterinarian. Dr. Seely reported that a dog under observation died several days ago of the dumb type of the disease.

"An outbreak occurring a number of weeks ago resulted in many dogs being bitten," Seely stated, "and the incubation period is elapsing in infected animals with the result that several cases of the disease may come to light most any day."

veit told Argentine newspapermen at a press conference there was no possibility that the United States would enter the League of Nations.

Questioned whether a move for an American League of Nations might grow out of the inter-American parley, the president replied that was in the hands of the conference.

The president was saddened by the death of his friend and bodyguard, August (Gus) Gennerich, who died of a heart attack early this morning while dancing at a local restaurant.

Gennerich, who was 55, had been the president's companion since Mr. Roosevelt first was elected governor of New York state in 1928.

His funeral is to be held tomorrow morning at Mr. Roosevelt's temporary offices in the United States embassy and his body is to be taken to the United States aboard the cruiser Indianapolis, on which he came here with President Roosevelt.

Out of respect for his dead aide, the president cancelled a sightseeing motor trip he was to have taken but adhered to the rest of his program.

Tonight the visiting United States executive was honored at a dinner given by President Justo at the Casa Rosada—the government house.

Tomorrow Mr. Roosevelt is to return the tribute with a luncheon for President Justo at the embassy.

Then he is scheduled to end his three-day stay in Buenos Aires, going to Montevideo, Uruguay's capital, on the other side of the Rio de la Plata.

After a visit of several hours in Montevideo Thursday, President Roosevelt is to leave for the United States.

Text of Roosevelt Speech at Opening of Conference on Peace in Buenos Aires

Buenos Aires—(AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's speech to the Inter-American Peace Conference today follows:

Members of the American Family of Nations:

On the happy occasion of the convening of this conference I address you thus, because members of a family need no introduction or formalities when, in pursuance of excellent custom, they meet together for their common good.

As a family we appreciate the hospitality of our host, President Justo, and the government and people of Argentina; and all of us are happy that to our friend Dr. Saavedra Lamas has come the well deserved award of the Nobel Prize for great service in the cause of world peace.

Three years ago the American family met in nearby Montevideo, the great capital of the republic of Uruguay. They were dark days. A shattering depression, unparalleled in its intensity, held us together with the rest of the world in its grasp. And on our own continent a tragic war was raging between two of our sister republics.

Yet, at that conference there was born, not only hope for our common future, but a greater measure of mutual trust between the American democracies than had ever existed before. In the eastern hemisphere the night of fear has been dispelled. Many of the intolerable burdens of economic depression have been lightened, and, due in no small part to our common efforts, every nation of this hemisphere is today at peace with its neighbors.

This is no conference to form alliances, to divide the spoils of war, to partition countries, to deal with human beings as though they were pawns in a game of chance. Our purpose, under happy auspices, is to assure the continuance of the blessing of peace.

Three years ago, recognizing that a crisis was being thrust upon the new world, with splendid unanimity our twenty-one republics set an example to the whole world by proclaiming a new spirit, a new day in the affairs of this hemisphere.

While the succeeding period has justified in full measure all that was said and done at Montevideo, it has unfortunately emphasized the seriousness of the threat to peace among other nations. Events elsewhere have served only to strengthen our horror of war and all that it means. The men, women and children of the Americas, know that we face in this day and age means more than the mere clash of armies; they see the destruction of cities and of farms—their forefathers that children and grandchildren, if they survive, will stagger for long years not only under the burden of poverty, but also amid the threat of broken society and the destruction of constitutional government.

I am profoundly convinced that the plain people everywhere in the civilized world today wish to live in peace one with another and still leaders and governments resort to war. Truly, if the genius of mankind that has invented the weapons of death cannot discover the means of preserving peace, civilization as we know it lives in an evil day.

But we cannot now, especially in view of our common purpose, accept any defeatist attitude. We have learned by hard experience that peace is not to be had for the mere asking; that peace, like other great privileges, can be obtained only by hard and painstaking effort. We are here to dedicate ourselves and our countries to that work.

You who assemble today carry with you in your deliberations the hopes of millions of human beings in the most fortunate lands. Beyond the ocean we see continents rent asunder by old hatreds and new fanaticism. We hear the demand that injustice and inequality be corrected by resorting to the sword and not by resorting to reason and peaceful justice. We hear the cry that new markets can be achieved only through conquest. We read that the sanctity of treaties between nations is disregarded.

We know, too, that vast armaments are rising on every side and that the work of creating them employs men and women by the millions. It is natural, however, for us to conclude that such employment is false employment, that it builds no permanent structures and creates no consumers goods for the maintenance of a lasting prosperity. We know that nations guilty of these follies inevitably face the day either when their weapons of destruction must be used against their neighbors or when an unsound economy like a house of cards will fall apart.

In either case, even though the Americas become involved in no war, we must suffer too. The madness of a great war in either part of the world would affect us and threaten our good in a hundred ways. And the economic collapse of any nation or nations must of necessity harm our own prosperity.

Can we, the republic of the new world, help the old world to avert the catastrophe which impends? Yes, I am confident that we can.

First, it is our duty by every honorable means to prevent any future war among ourselves. This best can be done through the strengthening of the processes of constitutional democratic government—to make these processes conform to the modern need for unity and efficiency, at the same time, preserve the individual liberties of our citizens. By so doing, the people of our nations, unlike the people of many nations who live under other forms of government, can and will insist on their intention to live in peace. Thus will democratic government be justified throughout the world.

In the determination to live at peace among ourselves we in the Americas make it at the same time clear that we stand shoulder to shoulder in our final deliberations that others who, driven by war madness or land hunger might seek to commit acts of aggression against us, will find a hemisphere wholly prepared to consult together for our mutual safety and our mutual good. I repeat what I said in speaking before the congress and the supreme court of Brazil, "Each one of us has learned the glories of independence. Let each one of us learn the glories of interdependence."

Secondly, and in addition to the perfecting of the mechanism of peace, we can strive even more strongly than in the past to prevent the creation of those conditions which give rise to war. Lack of social or political justice within the borders of any nation is always a cause for concern. Through democratic processes we can strive to achieve for the Americas the highest possible standard of living conditions for all our people. Men and women blessed with political freedom, willing to work and able to find work, rich enough to maintain their families and to educate their children, contented with their lot in life and on terms of friendship with their neighbors, will defend themselves to the utmost but will never consent to take up arms for a war of conquest.

Intervened with these problems is the further self-evident fact that the welfare and prosperity of each of our nations depends in large part on the benefits derived from commerce among themselves and with other nations for our present civilization rests on the basis of an international exchange of commodities. Every nation of the world has felt the evil effects of recent efforts to erect trade barriers of every known kind. Every individual citizen has suffered from them. It is no accident that the nations which have carried this process furthest are those which proclaim most loudly that they require war as an instrument of their policy. It is no accident that attempts to be self-sufficient have led to falling standards for their people and to ever-increasing loss of the democratic ideals in a mad race to pile armament on armament. It is no accident that because of the suicidal policies and the suffering attending them, many of their people have come to believe with despair that the price of war seems less than the price of peace.

This state of affairs we must refuse to accept with every instinct of defense, with every exhortation of enthusiastic hope, with every use of mind and skill.

I cannot refrain here from reiterating my gratification that in this, as in so many other achievements, the American republics have given a salutary example to the world. The resolution adopted at the inter-American conference at Montevideo endorsing the principles of liberal trade policies has shown forth like a beacon in the storm of economic madness which has been sweeping over the entire world during these later years.

Truly, if the principles there embodied still stand wide applications in your deliberations, it would be a notable contribution to the cause of peace. For my own part I have done all in my power to sustain the consistent efforts of my secretary of state in negotiating agreements for reciprocal trade, and even though the individual results may seem small, the total of them is significant, these policies in recent weeks have received the approval of the people of the United States, and they have I am sure the sympathy of the other nations here assembled.

There are many other causes for war—among them, long festering rivalries, unsettled frontiers, territorial disputes, but these sources of danger which still exist in the Americas, I am thankful to say, are not only few in number, but already on the way to peaceful adjudication. While the settlement of such controversies may necessarily involve adjustments at home or in our relations with our neighbors which may appear to involve material sacrifice, let no man or woman forget that there is no profit in war. Sacrifices in the cause of peace are infinitely small compared with the holocaust of war.

Peace comes from the spirit, and must be grounded in faith. In seeking peace, perhaps the best beginning is by proudly affirming the faith of the Americas; the faith in freedom and its fulfillment which has proved a mighty fortress beyond reach of successful attack in half of the world.

That faith arises from a common hope and a common design given us by our fathers in differing form, but with a single aim—freedom and security of the individual, which has become the foundation of our peace.

If then, by making war in our midst impossible, and if within ourselves and among ourselves we can give greater freedom and fulfillment to the individual lives of our citizens, the Democratic form of representative government will have justified the high hopes of the liberating fathers.

Democracy is still the hope of the world. If we in our generation can continue its successful applications in the Americas, it will spread and supersede other methods by which men are governed and which seem to most of us to run counter to our ideals of human liberty and human progress.

Three centuries of history sowed the seeds which grew into our nations; the fourth century saw those nations become equal and free and brought to us a common system of constitutional government; the fifth century is giving to us a common meaning ground of mutual help and understanding. Our hemisphere has at last come of age. We are here assembled to show our ancestors a great dream. We here offer it back as a great unified reality.

College Students Would Use Trains, Says Dr. McClelland

Girls Get Bad Impression of Place From Travel; Service Demand Grows

Dr. C. P. McClelland, president of MacMurray college, joined in the plea for better train service for Jacksonville yesterday and declared that MacMurray students and faculty members would make good use of a Chicago-St. Louis train if one were made available.

"We have girls coming to college from the east," Dr. McClelland said. "They know nothing of the connection that would land them in Springfield, and had to take the slow motor coach from Bloomington. They got a very bad impression of this entire section and thought they were coming to the back woods. The coach was crowded and some of the girls were herded into the smoke."

"We have some fifty students from Chicago and the northern part of the state. They would frequently use a Chicago fast train. There are others who travel to and from St. Louis, with which there is no connection. It is sometimes hard to get up an auto load to cut down expenses of such a trip."

"With railway rates so much cheaper now and driving on the highways so difficult and dangerous, most of us would rather use trains on long trips I would certainly use Jacksonville-Chicago train service. Driving to Springfield is a nuisance."

Dr. McClelland's feeling on the matter is echoed by many other local business and professional men. One man who took his family to Chicago for Thanksgiving, took the train from Springfield, rather than drive his car on the long trip in crowded traffic. "It does not pay to drive so far," he said. This man would certainly have used a direct Chicago train from this city if one had been available.

A feeling is also prevalent that Jacksonville is receiving the short end of the stick in railway passenger service, even compared with neighboring towns much smaller. Both Chapin and Rockhouse have fast train service, it is noted, while Jacksonville has none. Both these places have direct connection with large metropolitan centers, while this city of nearly 20,000 people is cut off from such service and practically isolated.

5-Room Farm Home Near White Hall Is Destroyed by Fire

White Hall Department Makes Run To Building; Called Out Again Monday

White Hall—The five-room farm house located a quarter of a mile south of the Wesley Chapel church on the David Lorton farm on Lorton's Prairie east of White Hall, and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lorton was completely destroyed by fire Sunday morning between eight and nine o'clock. Mr. Lorton and his son, David, had gone to the barn to milk the cows, and Mrs. Lorton was preparing the morning meal, when Elmer Keller who was passing by dashed into the home and told her that her house was burning. The roof was in a blaze and the nearest telephone was a mile away.

Mr. Keller drove on to the telephone and called the White Hall fire department who responded to the call but the house was too far gone to be saved. Some furniture was saved from the living room and one bedroom, but most of the family clothing as well as the furniture was destroyed. David Lorton carried insurance on the house but Lloyd Lorton had no insurance on his furniture.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Lorton will move into his father's house nearby, which had been closed since Mr. Lorton had gone to reside with his daughter, Mrs. Lee Morrow in the same neighborhood.

The White Hall fire department was again called out at noon Monday to the home of Ray Linker who resides in what is known as the Teter house on West Franklin street. A small blaze on the roof which had caught from sparks from the chimney did slight damage. The house is owned by the White Hall Building and Loan Association. This house was on fire a year or more ago and in practically the same place. A low chimney on the east side of the house, and the wind in the east accounted for the blaze in both instances.

Relief Problem Is About As Expected, Administrator Says

County Facing Big Problem During Next Few Months; Projects Expiring

The relief problem in Morgan county is just about as expected, L. B. Turner, county administrator, said Tuesday, but with a large number of WPA projects scheduled to expire during the present month, the outlook is anything but bright.

The first of December finds the county organization caring for 700 families, just nine more than were turned over to the county when the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission stopped dispensing direct relief. The administrator said that the increased cost of relief had been anticipated, due to the cold weather and the lessening of farm activities, but that the outlook was anything but encouraging.

O. P. Witz, supervisor of the WPA activities in the county, estimated that there will be work for about 250 men on January 1, and that about the quota for this county is 640 men. There are approximately 1,200 to 1,500 persons eligible for WPA jobs, he said, but there are no jobs on which men can be put to work.

A new sewer project, on Goltz avenue, will begin in the near future he said. This project has been approved by the federal government. Two other sewer projects have been submitted to the government, one of them for the extension of sewer lines on Hackett, Hockenhull and Allen streets, and the other from Finley west on Lafayette, and also north on Finley to Elm and then to North Webster streets. These two projects, if granted, will employ only 30 men.

There is some doubt about the proposed winter road work program for WPA men. The county WPA supervisor pointed out yesterday that the government would allow only so much money for road improvements, and there was a growing opinion that if this money was spent for cleaning off brush, pulling hedge and other clean-up work, there might not be enough left in the funds to pay for the traveling when the time arrives.

The county supervisor looks with favor on the application of the city to the WPA for men and money to construct the proposed additions to the city waterworks, including the construction of a new lake, and pointed out that these delays on this project, according to the way it has been set up. The project calls for continuous operation, which means that as soon as the men assigned to the project have put in their allotted amount of time, new men will step into their places. In this way, it would be possible to work six days a week on the project until it is completed.

The county relief department recently completed certifying all persons eligible for WPA work to the Illinois Relief Commission, which in turn certified the men to the National Relief employment Service. The National Relief employment Service places the men with the WPA.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

ALTHOUGH plants have a tendency to produce alike, they also have a tendency to vary, and sometimes the latter is stronger than the former. It is upon the first ability that plant races depend for the unchanged perpetuation of their kind, and upon the last that plant breeders depend for new and different species.

J.H.S. Debate Squad Meets Tuesday To Form Organization

First Call for 1937 Team Issued by Coach; 16 At Session

First call for the 1937 debate squad went out yesterday at the high school. Coach Harold Gibson had 16 students, most of them underclassmen, present at the initial meeting of the season last night. The meeting was for organization purposes. Mr. Gibson stated the requirements for participation in debate and also reviewed the record of Crimson debate teams for the past few years.

Additional interest in this activity has been stimulated this year by the possibility that the national tournament will be held in Jacksonville. J.H.S. is the only team in the United States that has qualified six straight years to attend this meet. That is every year that the tourney has been held. The first three years, Jacksonville qualified by winning large invitational meets. Then this was eliminated as a means of qualifying for the national and for the past three years J.H.S. has placed either first or second in the state, this being the only way now to win the right to go to the national meet.

Coach Gibson has two veterans of last years varsity to work with this year and several members of last years freshman team. Jane Dunlap, a member of the team that placed fourth in the United States two years ago, will be one of the mainstays this season. The last members of the team that first brought the Crimson national recognition in debate circles three years ago by winning the state championship and then placing fourth in the nation graduated last spring.

Miss Dunlap has gained the reputation of being one of the best debaters in the state and will probably represent J.H.S. in the field of extemporaneous speech also this season.

Barbara Butler is the other veteran of the 1936 varsity available. She served her first year on the varsity last season as a junior and was on the team that handed the strong DuQuoin negative team their only defeat of the year before their grand slam at the national brought them the championship of the U.S.

With these two as a nucleus around which to build a new squad, Mr. Gibson has the following students who received experience on the freshman squad which was inaugurated last year: John Self, John Clark, Bud Stephenson, Gratia Hall, Ella Jane Rogers, Bob Oxtoby, and Frances Capps. Others who have signed up for debate are Ruth Thomson, Ralph Thomson, William Lowry, Dallas Hagan, Carol McClelland, and Betty Cowdin. Ruth and Ralph Thomson have had some previous experience on the squad.

Health Officer In Statement Advises Immunization Work

City Relatively Free From Disease, But Precaution Must Be Observed

"Jacksonville, at the beginning of December 1936, is relatively free of reportable communicable diseases," Dr. Friedrich Engelbach, city health officer reported yesterday. At the same time he issued a statement urging immunization against certain diseases, including smallpox, scarlet fever, diphtheria, whooping cough, and typhoid fever as a forward step in maintaining a healthful community.

The report of the health officer showed that five cases of scarlet fever and one case of a typical smallpox are in quarantine at the present time. All of these cases have been reported to the city health department within the last two weeks.

Dr. Engelbach's statement continues:

"Smallpox is far more prevalent in Illinois now than in 1935, during which year about eighty cases were reported. Over five hundred cases have been reported during the first eleven months of 1936. Vaccination against smallpox is advised for all those who have never been vaccinated, for those who have been vaccinated seven or more years ago, and for those who have had suspected or known contact with a case.

"Scarlet fever immunization, while sometimes associated with moderately severe reactions, is quite effective in preventing scarlet fever. Mass immunization against scarlet fever is inadvisable, but each person should be immunized under the supervision of his own physician. A Dick test can readily be done to determine the susceptibility to scarlet fever and to control and result of immunization.

"In diphtheria, a test similar to the Dick test for scarlet fever, known as the Schick test, is used to determine susceptibility and to control the results of immunizing treatment.

"Whooping cough can also be prevented by the use of vaccine. It rarely gives even moderately severe reactions, and the results have been good.

"Typhoid fever, another contagious disease, is taken into the body through the mouth with food or liquid that is eaten, and can be prevented by immunization. This needs to be done every two or three years to be effective.

"The State of Illinois Department of Public Health furnishes to the physician without cost vaccine for immunization against smallpox, diphtheria, and typhoid fever. Material for immunization against scarlet fever and whooping cough is not yet supplied by the State.

"Immunization against these diseases which can so easily be prevented is advised, and the City Health Department will cooperate in all ways to further such immunization."

Audiences Grow At Church Meets

Dr. Albertus Perry Is Speaker at Central Christian Church

Audiences are growing as the series of lectures by Dr. Albertus Perry continues at Central Christian Church. His subject Tuesday evening was: "Palestine Today." Dr. Perry said in part: "Perhaps there is no country in all the world changing so rapidly in adopting modern customs and modern business methods as Palestine. The three outstanding cities are Jerusalem, Tel-Aviv, Haifa. This latter city is now the largest in Palestine with a population of about 150,000. It will have a steady healthy growth being a seaport town with the best kind of shipping and train services; a through train leaves there every morning for Cairo, Egypt. In Jerusalem Lloyd's Bank of England has a magnificent modern building, standing next to a beautiful modern city hall, both structures of white marble. About three blocks into the east on the north side of the city is the new museum, a gift of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and costing at least one million dollars. This is also heavily endowed. The interior of Jerusalem within the walls of the city looks as it did I presume 100 years ago. The outside of the walls are in every direction, excepting eastward is growing up very rapidly a modern town. The old east side will ever remain as such because of the Mohammedan cemeteries and the Valley of Kedron.

"Palestine has been very fortunate in recent years with some mighty fine leadership among the Jews, the Arabs and the English. The present Grand Mufti of the Mohammedan church is an up and coming young man. His visions of better days for his people and for his country.

"The real leaders among the Jews are on most cordial terms with the outstanding leaders of the Mohammedan faith. The recent out-breaks which caused the loss of so many lives is largely an expression of the lawlessness of the lower classes both among the Jews and the Arabs.

"It is interesting to go about the country noting the English signs; for example at the well of Nazareth there is a sign reading 'Speed limit—10 miles an hour,' and on the way down to the Red Sea frequently there are signs in the English, marking off the altitude. Although it has been 18 years since the city was surrendered to the English under General Allenby, he today seems to be a hero to all the racial groups and perhaps is the most respected man even today in Palestine.

"With a new harbor at Haifa, costing around five million dollars and a new railroad under construction, standard gage, from Haifa to Bagdad and the modern educational system being introduced, Palestine is very rapidly coming to the forefront among the nations of the world. It is the only country so far as we know that has escaped the depression.

"In talking on Palestine this evening, considerable time will be given to the study of Jericho then and now. We extend a hearty invitation particularly to those of the Odd Fellows lodge to be present."

Then ding dong dell, Pussy's in the well. And she did not seem to worry about being in the well any more than the Old Woman in the Shoe was worrying about her children. Boy Scouts bearing banners formed the next section of the parade and then down the street came the man who meant more to the youthful spectators than all of the rest of the parade.

Santa Claus! Waving his arms in greeting his appearance was met with cheers and shouts of "Hello, Hello," from many lusty throats.

Since even Santa Claus must have his rest, his home, a log cabin on wheels, followed him in the parade and not smoke but toy balloons floated from the chimney of the cabin to be lost in the atmosphere. In all parts of the procession grotesque figures with large heads and black robes danced and otherwise traveled down the streets to create additional entertainment for the spectators. And, Merry Christmas, was flashed from banners that appeared periodically in the parade. Boy Scouts had a prominent part in the day's events, and a number of ponies drew some of the floats.

And so the Christmas season has begun.

City Firemen Ready To Repair Old Toys For Many Children

Public Can Help by Giving Them Toys to Mend and Distribute Xmas

Jacksonville firemen yesterday issued their annual appeal for second-hand toys, which they will repair, repaint and make ready for distribution at Christmas time among a large number of boys and girls.

Members of the department work at repairing toys in their spare time. They take wagons that have seen hard service, and make bright, serviceable gifts out of miniature vehicles that appear to be on the way to the junk heap.

There are firemen who are experts with mechanical toys. Springs are removed from some toys and placed in others. Trains that haven't run for a year or two are put back into operation; miniature automobiles that come out of the fire department toy shop are ready to spin across the floor again.

All kinds of toys are welcome at the fire department, where each December the firemen busy themselves in this work. Last year a portion of the department resembled a huge toy counter in a department store. Hundreds of toys were repaired and painted and distributed to almost four hundred small boys and girls.

Distribution of these reconstructed toys is carried on independent of other agencies. The toys are sent out through the police department into homes where they are certain to bring gladness to juvenile hearts.

Jacksonville citizens possessing old toys are asked to help this worthy enterprise. Just take the toys to the fire department, and they will be re-conditioned ready for Christmas week.

Club Gets Acreage For Game Preserve; 800 Acres Leased

To Cooperate in Conservation Program; Plan Crow Killing Contest

Announcing that 800 acres have been signed up within a few miles of the city of Jacksonville for a state game preserve, and that members of the contact committee are seeking two other tracts of land up to 1000 acres, Ernest May, president of the Jacksonville chapter of the Morgan County Sportsman's club last night, outlined a portion of the plans for the coming winter months.

The club, which held its meeting in the court house, now has a membership of over 200 men, it was announced. The club voted to cooperate with the Jacksonville CCG camp in its conservation program and made plans to begin a crow shooting contest immediately.

Speaking for the chairman of the contact committee, the president said that the 800 acres signed up for state game preserves consisted of seven farms located north of the city. Part of the property has been posted already, and the remainder will be posted in the near future. The property is being leased for state game preserves in order to provide a place in which the local sportsman's club will have a protected area in which to release game.

The club instructed the secretary to write for plans for feeder houses and to begin securing these houses in order to have them available for feeding the game birds which come through the present hunting season, if the weather becomes so severe that the birds are unable to procure food.

J. G. Neubauer and Wendell Richardson will head up the crow shooting teams to be selected by the team captains from the membership. It is planned to begin the crow shooting contest immediately, and to continue it through the month of March. Shooters on each team are to present the top half of a crow bill to the secretary of the club in order to give their team credit for a kill. The club hopes to eradicate a large number of predatory birds during the three months of the contest.

The next meeting of the club probably will be an oyster supper, to be held on the evening of Jan. 5.

Sale of Christmas Seals Forges Ahead In This Community

More Letters With Health Giving Stamps Go Out To Citizens Here

Jacksonville's never-ending fight against tuberculosis was waged with concentrated effort yesterday as hundreds of citizens in the city and Morgan county received more letters containing sheets of the 1936 penny Christmas seals with appeals to support the work of the Morgan County Tuberculosis and Public Health League.

On each seal appears the jolly face of the modern Santa Claus. Posters bearing the smiling face were recently distributed for downtown shop windows by former pupils of the "open air" school. These posters were also distributed throughout the county by Mrs. A. L. Adams, chairman of the Christmas Seal committee and Miss Minnie Snyder city school nurse. On each poster is the appeal, "Protect your home from tuberculosis."

The work of the local Anti-Tuberculosis league has become well known in both city and county homes. For the past 30 years it has worked steadily to control tuberculosis. This work has been made possible by the annual sale of Christmas Seals.

Since the first Christmas Seal was sold in 1907 the tuberculosis death rate has been cut two-thirds but it is still the leading cause of death between 15 and 45. No home is safe from tuberculosis until all homes are safe because it is a communicable disease caused by a germ that can be passed by the sick to the well.

The Christmas Seals you buy help to find the sick and to protect the well.

Miss Alpha Kilham, Director of the Seal Sale, yesterday urged all who received the Seals to give them their earliest consideration.

Mrs. Clarence Northrup of Bluffs paid the city a visit yesterday.

Howard Sooy represented the Mur-raville vicinity in the business district yesterday afternoon.
